

From 18th till 19th Nov 2010 in St.Petersburg (Russia) yearly Days of Philosophy took place, organized by the State University and Philosophic society of St.Petersburg, with participation of people from all over Russia, CIS and Baltic states. The Forum was held in frames of International Day of philosophy under the aegis of UNESCO. Two days program included colloquiums, scientific conferences, seminars and round tables.

Brahma Kumaris has been in contact with Philosophic faculty of the St.Petersburg State University for many years, participating in this Forum usually with presentations on round tables and seminars. This year Brahma Kumaris was invited to hold its own round table during Forum. The title chosen “Resources development strategy is step to the future” resulted to be one of the most simple and clear ones and attracted participants from different cities of Russia.

Plenary session and evening event for officials was attended by Didi Santosh, head of BK in St.Petersburg and bro.Vijay, coordinator of BK in Russia, CIS and Baltic states. During all two days of the Forum BK team took participation in a number of sessions, where themes correlated with the spiritual knowledge, establishing new contacts and inviting people for further acquaintance.
