

BRAHMA UDYAN

Thailand

Thailand is known as the land of Brahma. Four-faced statues of Brahma can be seen all over the country, where he is regarded as the deity of good fortune and protection.

On Thursday, November 23, the Brahma Kumaris inaugurated Brahma Udyan at Wat Pabhutkham, in the Nong Song Hong district of Khon Kaen province in northeastern Thailand.

Built in memory of Prajapita Brahma, the founder of the Brahma Kumaris World Spiritual University, Brahma Udyan has a statue of Brahma and an exhibition of pictures depicting the spiritual significance of Brahma. It will tell people about the significant role played by Brahma in the history of the world, as revealed to us by God Shiva. The deity Brahma, after all, is a representation of none other than Brahma Baba.

The inauguration ceremony was graced by our senior Rajyogi brother Brij Mohan, who travelled all the way from Madhuban to be there, senior Buddhist monk Luang Poo Bai, of the Wat Pabhutkham Temple, and Dr. M. Sivaguru, Counsellor (Political) at the Embassy of India. Also present were seven other Brahmin souls from Bharat, other Thai monks, local officials, brothers and sisters from the BK family in Thailand, and members of the public. In all around 250 people had gathered for the event.

Brahma Udyan is the newest landmark that will serve as a place of cultural and spiritual interest to reveal Brahma Baba and his epoch-making role to the world.
